

I have completed my Masters in Pharmaceutical science at University of Greenwich, Medway, UK. I was graduated in Biotechnology in July 2008 from Vaagdevi degree and Pg College, Kakatiya University, India.

The main reason I am applying for Master's degree in Health Care is that I firmly believe it is the right path for me to achieve my goals of working in the health care field. After completing my education in the biotechnology in India I worked for Care Hospitals in India for 1 and half year which gave me a good on field experience in the relative field. I further decided to gain an overseas qualification so I travelled to UK and completed Masters in Pharmaceutical sciences.

Right now I am on PSW visa and have been working voluntarily in various NHS sponsored charity works related to health awareness, health care management and various such works. Along with this I have been working as a Pharmacy assistant with Jade Pharmacy Croydon. These experiences have now motivated me to further deepen my research and knowledge in the Healthcare management field. I strongly believe this master's degree will help in shaping my career and provide with the necessary boost required to take my professional career to a new level.

I have gone through the modules of MBA Healthcare of LCA - Anglia Ruskin University and felt that the modules are exactly what I was looking for in order to gain a valuable experience in order to succeed in this fast changing service oriented healthcare industry. The modules such as Public Health, International Human resource Management, Driving Quality Improvement in Professional Practice and Business Strategy – Global Approach are designed to give the perfect insight of the field.

These modules learning and the work placement will definitely give me a good experience of on field work. This Master's degree as a whole will definitely open a door for me to start my own business of care management in future. The health industry is continuously growing throughout the world and provides an excellent opportunity to establish myself in this field. Combined with the knowledge of biotechnology and Pharmaceutical science I have gained earlier I firmly believe this degree is the right step in shaping my career.

I searched for various universities for related course. Although there are universities offering general MBA and other MBA degrees in similar field with fewer fees, I have opted for LCA-Anglia Ruskin University because I feel if I invest in this course it will help me in gaining valuable knowledge in the area of my interest.

I truly hope LCA will give me an opportunity to study at their prestigious campus and at the same time will help me in achieving my career goals. I request the admissions team to process my application at the earliest and give me a chance to show my abilities.
